DOB: March 1999

It's race day and Chris is ready to win the checkered flag! Chris is an awesome young man who loves NASCAR and pretty much anything with wheels. Chris likes being outside riding his bike. Like most boys his age, he is into video games and has an interest in karate. Chris has dark hair, blue eyes and fair skin with freckles. He has a husky build and warm smile. His imagination is vast and he is enthusiastic about things he really likes. He can hold a conversation with adults and gets along very well with children of all ages. Chris loves to help others and does very well with a toddler in the home. Chris is thoughtful and soft spoken, but when he is upset can pout or throw a tantrum which can include crying and stomping. Chris is a very healthy child and does not have any medical or dental issues. Chris is in the 5th grade and splits his time between the standard classroom and special education classroom which is helping him to catch up to his grade level. Chris does have an Individual Education Plan (IEP). He has made tremendous strides in his behaviors and class work. He is behind in reading, math and writing. Chris needs regular assistance with homework but responds very well to one on one time. Chris does have some effects from prenatal alcohol exposure. Chris needs a family to monitor his medication for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and continue to support and be an advocate in his education. Chris does well with younger children and likes to be seen as a "role model". The family chosen for Chris needs to be committed to providing him with consistency, patience, and the ability to give him positive attention. Chris does not have any biological ties and is 100% free for adoption.
